IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR ON-CAMPUS RESIDENTS IN APARTMENT COMMUNITIES

We understand this may be a stressful and confusing time as our campus, state, and nation navigates the COVID-19 pandemic. As a Clemson Home resident approved to reside in a residential community during the university closure, we want to provide you with as much detailed information as possible to assist with your stay.

Meals & Dining

Fresh Food Company at McAlister Hall is currently serving to-go meals at specified times updated regularly at https://clemson.campusdish.com/. If you do not have a meal plan, no worries! Dining has reduced the door rate to $5 for any meal. They will continue to serve campus throughout the rest of the semester.
Protecting Yourself

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) has detailed information to help everyone understand how the virus spreads as well as recommendations for preventing the spread of the virus. Please visit the following web page to read more from the CDC. If you do not already own one, you are encouraged to buy a thermometer and Tylenol so that you have them if needed.

Social Distancing

Be mindful of potential interactions with others on campus and take proper precautions.

- In laundry facilities, distance yourself from others or wait until the rooms are unoccupied to utilize the machines.
- When walking to dining locations, maintain at least 6ft. of space between yourself and others.
- In community and wet-core bathrooms, maintain distance from others or wait until the space is unoccupied to utilize facilities.
- Many classrooms, common lounges, and study spaces have been locked. Some are not able to be closed. However, we discourage your use of these spaces for studying or connecting with others – instead use on-line and virtual connections for resources and to maintain community engagement.
- Utilize all personal hygiene precautions recommended by the CDC including regular hand-washing, disinfecting personal spaces, and cough/germ management.
- If you are living in an apartment with more than one bathroom, determine one bathroom for each occupant to utilize during this time.
- Regularly disinfect kitchen and bathroom countertops, cabinet and appliance handles, doorknobs, etc.
- Please do not allow anyone else to enter housing with you who does not have their own access.

Health & Wellbeing

For health and wellbeing tips to follow during the COVID-19 response, visit Healthy Campus.

Redfern Health Center will operate under modified operations throughout the time of online instruction.
Medical, Pharmacy & Lab Services

The health center will remain open with limited services to care for students' urgent health care needs throughout the time of online instruction. Our Primary Care Medical Clinic, Pharmacy, Radiology and Lab will be available to students who need urgent medical care.

Redfern is not accepting routine or non-urgent care appointments at this time. Please do not come directly to Redfern Health Center, but rather call first. If you need medical care or lab testing, please call 864-656-3571 to request an appointment. For prescription refills or transfers, please call the pharmacy at 864-656-3562.

Medical, Pharmacy & Lab Services

What to do if you get sick:

- Contact Redfern at 656-3571 or at https://www.clemson.edu/campus-life/student-health/

- Seek emergency care if needed through EMS/911 or a local emergency department.

Counseling & Psychological Services

Students in need of services, call 864-656-2451 during business hours (8am-4:30pm) to access care. A brief phone screen will be conducted to determine the best way to serve your needs. If you are currently receiving services, reply promptly to the secure message from your counselor.

Our overnight and over-the-weekend emergency phone-support service remains available by calling the Clemson University Police Department at 864-656-2222 and ask to speak with the CAPS Counselor on Call.

Safety & Security

In case of a housing emergency, you may contact a housing staff member at the RA on-call number or the Clemson University Police Department (CUPD) at 864-656-2222.

During this time of modified services, it is also imperative that all Student Code of Conduct and University Housing and Dining policies, rules, and regulations are adhered to/followed. Please consider your impact so that we can provide a safe and positive living environment for all residents remaining on-campus.
