8. Appeals Committee.

Students are encouraged first to contact the University Housing Assignments Office with concerns regarding the contract cancellation process. Fraternity Sorority Housing residents are to abide by the terms in Contract Cancellations and Fees, item 5, of Fraternity Sorority Housing section below.

FRATERNITY SORORITY HOUSING

1. Residency Requirement.

Students must have completed one semester at a college or university before they are eligible to live in the Fraternity and Sorority Residential Community. New freshmen may not reside in the Fraternity and Sorority Residential Community their first semester. However, new freshmen who join student organizations during their first semester may move into on-campus Fraternity and Sorority Residential Communities for their second semester with prior approval from the organization, the organization's advisor, and University Housing if space is available.

2. Contractual Commitment for Fraternity and Sorority Residential Community.

The contract for Fraternity and Sorority housing is legally binding at the time it is signed. Unless the student fails to enroll, the student is obligated to pay rent for the full academic year.

3. Cancellation of Contract Due to Change in Membership Status.

If a student is no longer a recognized member of or disaffiliates with an organization housed in fraternity and sorority housing, the student will be reassigned to other on-campus housing per the 2024-25 Clemson University Housing Contract. Should a cancellation be granted, cancellation charges will be assessed based on the additional living agreements and/or organization agreements related to Fraternity and Sorority Residential Community housing.

4. Cancellation of Contract Due to Insufficient Occupancy, Damages or Loss of Recognition as a Student Organization.

If a Fraternity and Sorority organization loses the use of their assigned housing due to insufficient occupancy, damages, or loss of recognition as a student organization, students will be reassigned to other on-campus housing, if such housing is available, per the 2024-25 Clemson University Housing & Dining Contract.

5. Contract Cancellations and Fees.

- (a) Students, who request cancellation of this Contract due to extenuating circumstances, must do so by submitting an online Appeals Form located on the Housing & Dining website. - (b) Organization leadership can support an individual resident's appeal by providing a support documentation letter indicating the desired release for the member. Should an organization support a contract cancellation of an individual resident, the organization would be financially obligated for the remainder of the contract dates which should be acknowledged in the support letter documentation.
- (c) The Housing & Dining Contract is legally binding and must be upheld by the student until notification has been received via email from the Housing & Dining Appeals Committee.
- (d) Cancellation fee, an amount not to exceed a semester's rental rate for the area assigned, will be applied to the student's iRoar account based on the circumstances of cancellation.
